

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

The last Legislature adopted a resolution calling for a vote at the next general election upon the question of holding a constitutional convention. The question has been three times submitted to the people. Twice it was defeated because of the omission of many voters, in the excitement of the general election, to affix "yes" or "no" to the words on the ticket, "For a Constitutional Convention. Both times the affirmative had a three-fourth majority over the negative, but as it required a majority of all of the votes cast to carry, every blank was practically a "No," and thus the call was both times defeated. In 1882 the Democratic State convention adopted a resolution favoring a constitutional convention, and the State central committee requested the different Democratic county committees throughout the State to have printed on the tickets "Yes," upon the convention question, which suggestion was adopted by the party representatives in most of the counties. The Democratic State ticket was defeated that year, but the convention question carried by a larger majority than any State candidate was ever elected since the admission of the State. But, notwithstanding this most emphatic expression of the voters, the measure was lost through the refusal of the Judges of the Supreme Court, who constituted the State Board of Canvassers, to canvass the vote, upon the technicality that the statutes did not mention, in so many words, the canvassing of a constitutional election vote as a part of their duties, although two of them had performed that "duty" when the measure was known to be defeated. The technicality has since been corrected in the statutes and, in all probability, the wishes of the people will be carried out in 1891.

The greatest objection to a constitutional convention that has been urged by its opponents is the expense. This is simply nonsensical. When the original constitution was formed the members of the convention received only three dollars per day, payable in greenbacks, which were worth at that time about forty cents to the dollar. The convention was composed of the brightest men in the State, including a large proportion of first class lawyers, who willingly sacrificed their time in the interest of the proposed commonwealth. The constitutional convention now in question need be composed of but thirty-five members, which is the number of the membership of both branches of the legislature. The requisite changes could easily be made in twenty days, so the per diem would only amount to $2,100 at the same rate that was paid to members in depreciated currency in the first times of 1884. There is no question but a sufficient number of competent persons would be willing to sacrifice their time for three weeks, to insure an intelligent membership to the proposed convention. The legislature of 1901 would arrange for the meeting, name the per diem and provide for all the requirements in regard to expenses, which need not exceed $5,000, from the issuance of the proclamation to the adjournment of the convention. So much for the expense. Why, it would not amount to half as much as the last legislature has worse than thrown away in appropriations which could not have been made under a constitution adapted to the population and conditions of the State at the present time. The present constitution was framed when everything was booming and when appearances indicated a population in a few years of half a million, and our fundamental laws were enacted in view of that condition. As it is, it is better adapted to a State like New York or Pennsylvania than a little commonwealth of less than 45,000 souls. No general or effective system of economic reform can be established under our present constitution. Whenever an attempt is made to lop off an unnecessary expense, some constitutional obstruction is sure to arise to prevent its consummation. The JOURNAL will advocate this measure and it pledges itself to prove beyond the possibility of doubt that under a constitution adapted to existing conditions, a better State government can be secured and at 25 per cent less expense than the present one.

EVERY State Democratic convention held during 1898 endorsed the free coinage of silver at the 16 to 1 ratio, with the single exception of New York, and yet the bosses of that State want to dominate. Although it has been, and perhaps always will be, necessary to have political leaders, but not bosses or dictators. These last are what control the Republican party. Let it never be said truthfully that such is the case with the Democratic party, for then it will no longer be Democratic. A large majority of New York Democrats unquestionably are silver men, and it behooves them to ignore these impudent bosses and seek for genuine Democratic leaders to lead them into the fold of the party.

THE declaration that President McKinley has definitely decided permanently to retain the Philippines will probably cause intense indignation in the ranks of the gold Democratic supporters of McKinley, now holding office under him, but not enough to cause them to throw up their jobs.

DEMOCRATS TO BLAME.

In the next political battle in Utah there will be allied bimetallic forces on the one side and the administration gold standard on the other. Either that, or gold and greed will win the victory.—Utah State Journal.

If we understand the Utah political conditions the "bimetallic forces" had a majority in the last legislature, and it was the Republicans who were divided on the silver question. The Democrats had a handsome majority, and presumably all of the Democratic candidates were bimetallics, but the paramount issue was ignored on account of local dissensions in the party and so the bimetallic force in the Senate will lose one vote on account of the stubbornness of the Utah Democracy. It would have been far better for the Democratic cause to have elected Frank Cannon, Silver Republican as he is, than that the double standard cause should have lost a representative in the upper house.

THE WAR GOES ON.

The war in the Philippines goes on, and will go on until the deluded followers of Aguinaldo are defeated. It is folly to discuss the propriety of the United States retiring from the islands to give the Filipinos an opportunity to form an independent government. Our ideas about government coming by consent of the people is correct when applied to a people who have capacity to govern; but the rule, when applied to grown-up children in matters of self government, will not work. The time is at hand when the enlightened self-governing people of the earth must take up the work of giving to the inferior races of men good and stable government in the interests of humanity. Our part of the great work has had its beginning and it may require the most of the century the world will soon enter upon to finish the grand work so much needed for the protection of the weak, and for the further advancement of that higher civilization developed in western Europe and America during the present century.

THE GROWTH OF RENO.

The Town Almost Doubles Its Size in tf
Ten Years.

Mr. Moore, an expert surveyor and tf mapper, in the employ of the Sanborne-Paris Map Company, is just completing a map of Reno, upon which he has been working for the past three weeks. The last complete map of Reno made by this company was in the year 1890, and it covered ten sheets of the standard size paper used for this purpose. This year the map covers eighteen sheets of the same size paper, showing that the town has nearly doubled in size since 1890. As these maps are made for the benefit of insurance companies every building is shown and the dimensions given, and they are thoroughly reliable.

Reno is growing more rapidly now tf than ever before. It is almost safe to say that within ten years trolley cars will run through our streets, elevators will make their momentary ascents to the top of sky-scrapers on Commercial Row, and news-boys upon the macadamized streets will make the morning air ring with the cry of "Journal! Mornin' Journal!"

District Court.

Yesterday the dates for trial were tf
set for the following cases:

The case of Goodwin and Dodge vs. tf
Wm. Webster will be tried by court on March 20.

H. P. Reed will be tried by jury on tf
April 30, for the crime of murder. This promises to be a most interesting trial. As yet Reed has manifested no signs of insanity, and it is doubtful if a plea of that nature will be entered for him. A strong chain of evidence has been forged, link by link, all of which shows Reed to be guilty of the murder of George Avery.

James Mead will be tried by jury on tf
April 4th, for assault with intent to kill. F. H. Norcross will act as attorney for the defendant.

The case of J. J. Quinn vs. Al. White tf is set for jury trial on April 5th. T. E. Haydon is Quinn's attorney, while Wren, Julien and Cheney will act for White.

Opinion of a Near Neighbor.

The Nevada legislature is a bouquet tf of daisies, from Stewart's re-election on through the session. A bill to repeal the prize-fight law was defeated—though this is not remarkable in view of the number of fights which take place in other States. Then comes a proposition to legalize a lottery by constitutional amendment, and it passed both houses. A bill to prevent the Southern Pacific discriminating against Nevada in freights and fares was defeated, despite the obvious facts which exist. Next Reno is disincorporated by legislative enactment on petition of 180 persons, though the election which made Reno a city was over 600 for to 250 against. One leading reason why we would not like to see this slope donated to Nevada is because of the vagaries of a Nevada legislature.—Inyo Register.

accompanied by their families, returned from Carson Monday, where the boys have been employed in the State printing office. The legislature having adjourned there was a large decrease in work; consequently it was necessary to reduce the working force, hence their return.

Notwithstanding the fact that Washoe tf county stood by her home candidate for superintendent of printing, Mr. Maute of Nye county, who was the successful aspirant, recognized and gave us a representation of three in the composing rooms and two young ladies in the bindery, a generous consideration which the craft is not slow to recognize and for which Mr. Maute will receive credit from the printing fraternity of this county.

Bargains in Pianos.

A. P. Hodges, the reliable piano tf dealer who has paid yearly visits to this section for years, has returned with a fine line of high grade pianos to again give the people an opportunity to purchase first-class instruments. Mr. Hodges can be seen at the Golden Eagle hotel, and anyone desiring to purchase a good piano should by all means improve the opportunity now offered. mar124

A Drunken Indian.

Last Monday a drunken Indian made tf
his way into the Clarendon hotel and in his aimless wanderings walked into the room of Mrs. George Clark. Mrs. Clark was badly frightened and rushed from the room screaming for help. Mr. Clark appeared, and with the assistance of two other men held the Indian until an officer arrived, who promptly took the "noble red man" to the cooler.
